

A 2D coordinate system is shown with a grid. The horizontal and vertical axes are represented by thick black lines intersecting at the origin. The grid consists of 8 squares in each direction from the origin. A blue vector, labeled $T(\mathbf{x})$, originates from the origin and points to the point (1, 1). The label $T(\mathbf{x})$ is placed at the tip of the vector.

$T(\mathbf{x})$